Additional Product Information

~ Hand-Crafted in Mexico: Our copper and stone collections are completely hand-crafted in Mexico by highly skilled Artisans. Using age-old techniques and ‘family secrets’ that have been handed down from father to son for generations on end, most of our craftsmen have been practicing their trade since they first learned to walk!

We utilize only the finest materials in the production of each piece... 100%, 16 gauge copper and 100% totally natural stone. Because each piece is crafted from pure, natural elements, no two pieces ever turn out exactly alike. Uniqueness is further guaranteed by Mother Nature’s brilliant variations in color and veining patterns in natural stone... and by the application of the patina finish to our copper items. Each copper piece ‘takes’ the finish differently, and leaves the Artisan’s hands with a character and style uniquely it’s own.

Natural elements, coupled with hand-crafted processes result in products that are indeed true, one-of-a-kind creations. Treasures that will be admired and appreciated for generations to come!

~ Custom Orders: We manufacture most of the items we offer and do accept custom requests. Most of what you see in our collections can be modified to meet your specific needs. Should you desire a different size, shape, color... have a specific idea... or have seen an item that you would like to have ‘translated’ to copper or stone, we can, in most instances, produce it for you. Call us... we would love to discuss your ideas.

~ Irregularities of Hand-Crafted Copper & Stone: Due to the nature of ‘hand-crafting’ and because of the natural anomalies inherent in stone, some items may exhibit some minor ‘imperfections’ and can vary in coloration and size. We recommend that you wait until you have the actual item on hand for exact measurements BEFORE cutting any surface tops and/or completing cabinets that will house the item.

For ease of installation, all items are made to US Plumbing Standards

Caring for Your Copper Sink & Bath Tub

Maintaining Copper

The key to maintaining your copper sink or tub in perfect condition is really about what you don't do. And, what you don't do, is scrub, or polish or use any acid-based or abrasive products on them! Our copper sinks and tubs are finished with a patina that is 'fired' into the material and gives them a weathered or 'aged' appearance. If you scrub and polish... or use acid-based or abrasive products on them, it will damage the patina finish.

Just rinse your sink or bath tub with water after each use, give it a thorough cleaning with mild soap from time to time and it will give you lifetimes of enjoyment!

Hard Water Areas

If you live in an area where the mineral content in your water is high, we suggest you wipe your copper sink or tub dry after each use to prevent unsightly spotting. When 'hard' water is left to stand, minerals in the water accumulate and begin to form deposits on your sink or tub. Once that happens, they'll be difficult to remove and you run the risk of ruining the patina finish.

A Light Wax Coating

You can give your copper sink and bath tub an additional layer of protection (especially in 'hard water' areas), by applying a light coat of wax. A high quality wax, specifically made for plumbing fixtures will protect your sink and tub against mineral deposits and other types of build ups. For those who live in a 'hard water' area, waxing will be a definite plus.

How often should you apply a new coat of wax? As often as needed. When you notice that water is no longer 'beading up' on the surface of your copper sink or bath tub, it's time to apply another coat.

Cleaning Your Copper Sink

Copper is naturally antibacterial and more sanitary than all other materials currently used to make sinks and bath tubs. Recent studies have shown that bacteria can only live for hours on copper, in comparison to days on stainless steel and even longer on other types of kitchen and bath surfaces! Your copper sink and bath tub will do most of the work in keeping themselves clean. All you have to do is help them maintain themselves by giving them an occasional cleaning with a very gentle soap.

To clean... use a soft, non-abrasive cloth, mild soap, warm water and gently wipe the interior and exterior of your copper sink or tub. Rinse thoroughly with clean water and wipe them dry with a clean soft cloth.

Warning! Housekeepers love to scrub and polish and typically use a variety of abrasive cleaning agents and disinfectants to clean your bathrooms. If they are not informed about the proper care of your copper sink and bath tub, they may unknowingly damage the finish. Be sure to go over this information with your housekeeper and educate her or him, about the proper way to clean your copper sinks and tubs.

One Final Note... for your kitchen sink

All acid based foods and/or food items... lemons, tomatoes, mustard, pineapple, vinegar, etc... have the potential to damage the patina finish. To avoid ruining the finish it is best to leave water running while working with products and foods of this nature. Rinse your sink thoroughly immediately after use

Caring for Your Natural Stone Sink & Bathtub

Maintaining Stone

To keep your stone sink or vessel sink in its 'like new' condition, we recommend following a few simple procedures...

- ~ First, on a daily basis, rinse your sink with water after each use and dry it with a soft cloth.
- ~ Next, give your stone sink a periodic cleaning with a very mild soap.
- ~ Third, reapply a protective sealant to your sink on an 'as needed' basis.
- ~ And finally, always avoid using acid-based cleaners and abrasive products on your sink. These items can scratch the surface of your sink and may even cause irreparable damage.

By following these simple recommendations, your stone sink will still look as beautiful after 5, 10 even 50 years of use as it did on the day it was first installed in your home!

Hard Water Areas

If you live in an area where the mineral content in your water is high, it's especially important to dry your sink with a soft cloth after each use. When 'hard' water is left to stand, minerals in the water accumulate and begin to form deposits on your sink. Once that happens, the residue will be difficult to clean and will have to be removed through the use of a specially formulated poultice or the help of a qualified 'stone' professional.

Protective Sealant

To maintain their beautiful, natural finish, all of our stone sinks and vessel sinks are pre-sealed with a protective sealant. The sealant is designed to protect your sink during normal daily use, however it loses its effectiveness over time and does have to be reapplied.

How often should you apply a new coat of sealant? On an 'as needed' basis. A good rule of thumb is after one year of use, however you may need to reseal your sink with more or less frequency. The best way to test the need to apply a new coat of sealant is to notice if the water 'beads up' on the surface or soaks into your sink. If water no longer 'beads up', it's time to consider resealing your sink.

Cleaning Your Stone Sink

A regularly scheduled cleaning with a very gentle soap is all that is needed to keep your sink looking its best.

To clean... use a soft, non-abrasive cloth, mild soap, warm water and gently wipe the interior and exterior of your sink. Rinse thoroughly with clean water and wipe your sink dry with a clean soft cloth.

Warning! Housekeepers love to scrub and polish and typically use a variety of abrasive cleaning agents and disinfectants to clean your bathrooms. If they are not informed about the proper care of your natural stone sink, they may unknowingly stain, scratch or damage the surface. Be sure to go over this information with your housekeeper and educate her or him, about the proper way to clean your stone sink.
